Lausanne
CAPITALE OLYMPIQUE

After 25 years, international Eventing is coming back to Lausanne, the Olympic Capital

In October 1989, « Club Equestre de Lausanne » organized the Eventing European Junior Championships and member of the gold medalist team was Rudolf Scherrer (FRA). After 25 years, the « Club Equestre de Lausanne » is taking an important step by organizing an Eventing competition at international level again.

City of Lausanne is relishing the prospect of seeing again Eventing riders at Chalet-à-Gobet. Lausanne regularly hosts large international sports events attracting thousands of people : Athlétissima, Triathlon of Lausanne, Lausanne Marathon, among others. With its vast experience and infrastructure, Lausanne is able to host any international event.

Sport has always been at the heart of the city of Lausanne and the commitment of local authorities is there to prove it. Indeed, the provision of the plain of Mauvernay, as the site for cross country, offers a wonderful venue to the competitors and for the spectators a great show.

The role of Lausanne as a flagship city for sports and youth will also be an advantage for young talents giving them access to the benefit of the «International sports cluster».

One of the goals of equissima® Lausanne is to promote the future stars of Eventing and for this purpose, a unique concept combining competition and education will be set up for the competitors under 21 years. The educational program will include workshops on different themes, such as the Olympic Movement, sports nutrition, physical training technics, etc.

In a nutshell, equissima® Lausanne is doing everything it possibly can to best accommodate riders, horses and followers in optimal conditions and to provide a beautiful sporting event and an unforgettable stay in Lausanne.

equissima® Lausanne is looking forward to welcoming you in its amazing new venue, in Lausanne the Olympic Capital.

Together around sports

Real pearls in the heart of Europe, the “Canton de Vaud” and the city of Lausanne provide ideal conditions for great sporting events.

“Canton de Vaud”, with the largest French-speaking population of Switzerland, has numerous advantages to display: infrastructure, political stability, highly skilled and cosmopolitan workforce, research centers and advanced technology ...

“Canton de Vaud” has a very active policy in the area of sport, including large investments in infrastructure, organization of international events and also being the home for most of the international sports federations.

With a population of around 130'000 residents, Lausanne is a dynamic and diverse city, located on the hedge of Lake of Geneva. The main pillars of the city's activities are sustainability, education, culture and sport. Sport is of particular interest. In 1994, the International Olympic Committee, based in Lausanne, has awarded the city the unique title of « Olympic Capital” for its commitment to the Olympic movement and in sport in general. Lausanne and its surrounding area are home for more than 50 international sports organizations, including the International Equestrian Federation (FEI). Sustainable sport

Like all sports, equestrian events generate an ecological footprint with undeniable environmental impacts (transport of horses, waste, energy consumption, communication, merchandising, etc.).

Having said that, equestrian sport can also play a prime educational role as it is a great vehicle for environmental awareness and development of the concepts of respect, responsibility and eco-citizenship.

Equestrian sport conveys, the values of commitment and respect, essential to the preservation of the environment and social ethics.

The competition taking place on site «Mauvernay» brings new responsibility for equissima® Lausanne towards the environment. Indeed, the cross-country course will need to be built within two weeks, (including the water obstacle) and then returned to the farmers the week following the event.

The equissima® Sustainability Charter will be the tool guiding the organizers in delivering an eco-exemplary event.
